

Architect & Engineer Liability

Plunkett Cooney has been recognized as one of Michigan's leading law firms in the representation of design professionals since this practice area began to evolve during the mid-1950s.

Plunkett Cooney is one of the few firms in the state with a group of professionals who devote their practices to representing architects and engineers in all facets of their professional practices. This includes, but is not limited to, assisting clients with contract negotiation, risk management, lien placement litigation, mediation, arbitration, construction claims, project/construction administration, project workouts, and errors and omissions liability defense.

Plunkett Cooney also enjoys strong contacts with insurance industry representatives to assist clients in addressing their underwriting needs and to implement programs intended to mitigate potential claims by owners and/or contractors.