

Construction Law

---

Plunkett Cooney is one of Michigan's leading law firms to the construction industry with expertise in representing design professionals, contractors, subcontractors, developers and the insurance companies defending their business interests.

Whether negotiating a contract, reviewing construction site safety issues, assisting in design project solutions or advocating a client's position in court, Plunkett Cooney attorneys have the industry knowledge, expertise and legal background to protect its client's business assets and achieve favorable results.

Our construction law attorneys are located in offices throughout the state and are ready to provide legal counsel, backed by the resources of a high-powered law firm, whenever and wherever it is needed.

The links to the right provide an overview of some of the many construction-related services Plunkett Cooney attorneys provide to their clients each day.